(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index must be the percentage increase for the 12 months ending on November 30 in each year, and that percentage increase must be applied to the average weekly earnings of the worker on the anniversary date of the commencement of the worker's loss of earnings resulting from the injury in the year following the year in which the calculation is made.

(3) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), if the result of an adjustment pursuant to clause (1)(a) is to make the worker's average weekly earnings for a year greater than one fifty-second of the maximum wage rate for that year, the worker's average weekly earnings must be set at one fifty-second of the maximum wage rate.

Determination of average weekly earnings

- (b) at the commencement of the worker's recurrence of that injury within the meaning of section 72.

(3) If the employer was accustomed to paying to the worker an amount of money to cover any special expenses imposed on the worker by the nature of the worker's employment, that amount must not be included as part of the worker's earnings.

(4) In determining the average weekly earnings of a worker, the board shall take into consideration the average earnings, as determined by the board, that were earned by a person regularly employed in the same grade of employment if:

(a) the worker was not available for employment for the full period of 12 months preceding the commencement of his or her loss of earnings resulting from the injury; or

(b) in the opinion of the board, it is inequitable, by the casual nature or the terms of the worker's employment, to compute the worker's average weekly earnings in accordance with subsection (1).

(3) If compensation is paid to a worker for a period exceeding 24 consecutive months, the board shall set aside an amount equal to 10% of the compensation paid during the 24-month period and of the future compensation to be paid after the expiry of the 24-month period.

Board may supplement annuity

74 If the board determines that the impact of the injury on the retirement income of the worker is greater than is recognized by the payments pursuant to subsection 73(3) and that it causes an undue hardship to the worker, the board may supplement the income of that worker on and after the day on which the worker reaches the age of 65 to increase the amount of the worker's income to the minimum amount of compensation then payable.

(3) If a principal has made a payment with respect to an assessment or compensation or has furnished medical aid that, other than by reason of subsection (2), the principal would not have been liable to pay or furnish, the principal is entitled to reimbursement from the contractor or subcontractor to the extent to which the board finds that the contractor or subcontractor would have been liable.

Principal to ensure payment by contractor

(2) If a principal fails to comply with subsection (1) and the amount is not paid, the principal is liable to pay that amount to the board.

(3) The board has the same powers and is entitled to the same remedies for enforcing payment pursuant to this section that it possesses with respect to an assessment pursuant to this Act.

(4) If the principal is liable to make a payment to the board pursuant to this section, the principal is entitled to be indemnified by any person who should have made the payment and is entitled to withhold, out of any indebtedness due to that person, a sufficient amount with respect to that indemnity.

(5) All questions as to the right to and the amount of an indemnity pursuant to subsection (4) must be determined by the board.

Claiming or collecting contributions from contractor

133 Nothing in section 131 or 132 prevents a worker from claiming compensation or the board from collecting contributions to the fund from the contractor or any subcontractor instead of the principal.

PART VI
Assessments

Levy of assessment

134(1) Subject to subsection (4), in every year, the board shall levy an assessment on the employers in each class of industries an amount based on any percentage of the employers’ payrolls or on any other rate, or an amount specified by the board, that, allowing for any surplus or deficit in the class, the board considers sufficient to pay:

- (a) the compensation with respect to injuries to workers in the businesses within the class;

- (b) the expenses of the administration of this Act; and
 - (c) the cost of the administration of the occupational health and safety program for that year.
- (2) The board shall maintain a reserve fund of amounts that the board considers necessary:
- (a) to pay:
 - (i) the compensation payable in future years with respect to claims in that class of industries occurring in those years; and
 - (ii) the cost of the administration of the occupational health and safety program in future years; and
 - (b) to prevent the employers in future years from being unduly or unfairly burdened with payments that are to be made in those years with respect to injuries that have previously occurred and with respect to the cost of the administration of the occupational health and safety program.
- (3) It is not necessary that the reserve fund mentioned in subsection (2) be uniform as to all classes of industries and, subject to sections 116 and 149, the board may provide for a larger reserve in one or more of the classes than is provided in other classes.
- (4) If, in any year, the board proposes to levy an assessment on the employers in a class of industries that exceeds the assessment levied on those employers in the preceding year by more than 10.5%:

(2) After the employer's actual payroll has been ascertained, the board shall adjust the assessment to the correct amount.

(3) If the board considers it advisable to do so, the board may divide the payment of assessments into instalments.

If wages or salary on payroll exceeds maximum assessable wage rate

137(1) If the assessment is based on the payroll of the employer and the payroll includes the wages or salary of a worker who has been paid more than the maximum assessable wage rate:

- (a) the amount in excess of the maximum assessable wage rate must be deducted from the amount of the payroll; and
- (b) the employer's assessment must be based on that reduced amount.

(2) In every year, the board shall set a maximum assessable wage rate and cause that maximum assessable wage rate to be made public in any manner that the board considers appropriate.

Assessment may vary with hazard

138(1) It is not necessary that the assessment levied on the employers in a class or subclass of industries be uniform.

(2) The board may fix the assessment on an employer in relation to the hazard found in the type of work or in relation to the hazard in any of the businesses included in the class or subclass.

Merit rating

- (b) if payment is to be made by instalments, pay the first instalment within the period mentioned in clause (a) and pay the remaining instalments at the times specified in the notice.

(3) The notice mentioned in subsection (1) may be sent by ordinary mail to the employer and is deemed to have been received by the employer on the fifth business day after the day on which the notice was mailed.

If statement of estimate of payroll too low

142 If at any time it appears that a payroll statement or estimate of payroll on which an assessment or provisional amount of assessment is based is too low, the employer shall, on demand of the board, pay to the board any amount that the board may fix to bring the payment of assessment up to the proper amount.

Supplementary assessment if insufficient assessment

143(1) If the amount realized from an assessment is insufficient for the purpose for which it is made, the board may make supplementary assessments to make up the deficiency, and sections 141 and 142 apply, with any necessary modification, to those assessments.

(2) The board may defer assessing for a deficiency mentioned in subsection (1) until the next annual assessment is made and may include the amount necessary to make up the deficiency in that assessment.

If deficiency caused by particular employers

144(1) A deficiency or loss must be made up by supplementary assessments on the employers in all the classes of industries if the deficiency in the amount realized from an assessment in any class is caused by:

- (a) the failure of some of the employers in that class to pay their share of the assessment; or
- (b) any disaster or other circumstance that in the opinion of the board would unfairly burden the employers in that class.

(2) Sections 141 and 142 apply, with any necessary modification, to the supplementary assessments mentioned in subsection (1).

(3) The board may defer assessing for the deficiency or loss mentioned in subsection (1) until the next annual assessment is made and may include the amount necessary to make up the deficiency in that assessment.

145 If the board considers it appropriate to do so, the board may add to the assessment for any class or for all classes of industries a percentage or amount for the purpose of raising a special reserve fund to be set aside to meet the loss arising from any disaster or other circumstance the liability for which would, in the opinion of the board, unfairly burden the employers in any class.

Association re injury prevention and safety

146(1) If the employers in any class established pursuant to this Act have formed themselves into an association for the purpose of injury prevention and safety, the board may make a grant towards the expenses of the association.

(2) Any money paid by the board pursuant to subsection (1) must be charged against the class represented by the association and levied as part of the assessment against that class.

- (a) must be apportioned among the other employers in the class, in the proportion in which each employer made payment with respect to the deficiency by supplementary assessment; and
- (b) must be credited to each of the other employers in making the next assessment.

148(1) If for any reason an employer who should be assessed is not assessed in any year, the employer remains liable to pay to the board the amount for which the employer ought to have been assessed.

(2) The board shall take into account any amount collected from an employer pursuant to subsection (1) when making an assessment in a subsequent year on the employers in the class or subclass to which the employer belonged.

(3) Notwithstanding that a deficiency arising from a default in the payment of all or any part of an assessment has been made up by a special assessment, a defaulting employer continues to be liable to pay to the board the amount of every assessment made on the employer or the amount of it that remains unpaid.

Supplementary assessment when fund insufficient

149(1) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may direct the board to make a supplementary assessment of any amount that the Lieutenant Governor in Council considers necessary to be added to the fund if the Lieutenant Governor in Council is of the opinion that:

- (a) the state of the fund is such that the reserves, other than the special reserve fund mentioned in section 145, are insufficient to meet all payments of compensation as they become payable; and
- (b) it is necessary to do so in order not to unduly or unfairly burden the employers in any class in future years with payments that are to be made in those years with respect to injuries that have happened in previous years.

(2) If the board is directed to make a supplementary assessment pursuant to subsection (1), it shall immediately make that assessment, and the provisions of this Act with respect to special assessments apply, with any necessary modification, to the supplementary assessment.

Formation of reserves

150(1) In order to maintain the fund as required by section 116, the board may include in any amount to be assessed on the employers, and may collect from them, any amounts that the board considers necessary for that purpose.

- (a) the full amount or a capitalized value, as determined by the board, of the compensation payable with respect to any injury to a worker in the employer's employ that happens during the period of the default; and
- (b) the full amount of medical aid payable with respect to any injury to a worker in the employer's employ that happens during the period of the default.

(3) If the board is satisfied that failure to make or transmit any payroll statement, return or other statement was not intentional and that the employer honestly desired to furnish an accurate statement, it may relieve the employer in whole or in part from liability pursuant to this section.

(2) In the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1), a judge of the Court of Queen's Bench may, on an application made on behalf of the board, without the commencement of an action, restrain the judgment debtor from carrying on his or her business until the amounts due on assessments and the costs of the application are paid.
